

VICTOR HUGO

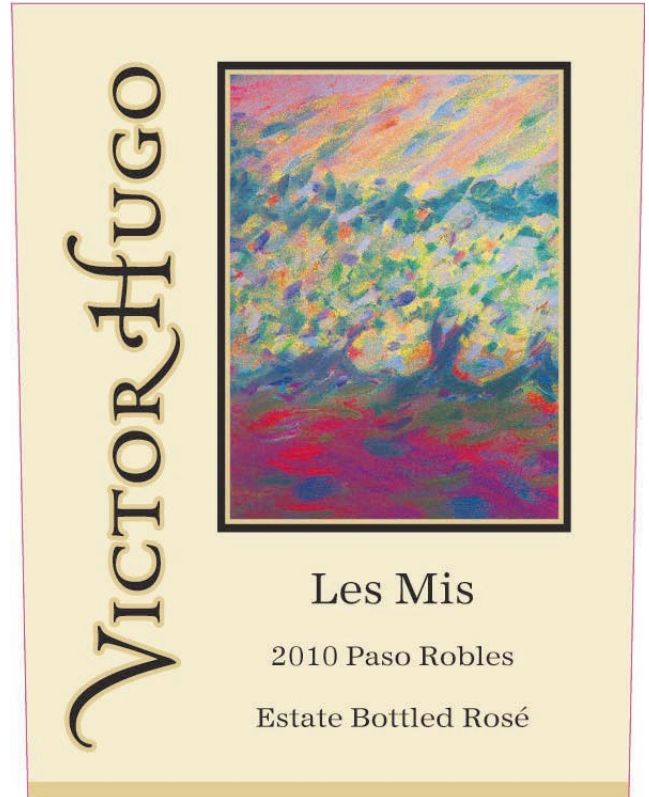

Tasting Notes

2010 Les Mis Estate Rosé

Enticing aromas of mandarin oranges and lavender predominate with some floral components in the background create lush flavors. This wine has a somewhat fleshy, supple mid-palate followed by a clean, crisp finish.

Cellaring: No need to cellar. This delightful wine is meant to be consumed while young and fresh. While designed for warm spring and summer days, this wine will enhance all classic fall and winter holiday feasts.

Food selection: As you might have surmised from the reference above, we feel this is the wine for all poultry courses, salmon and sundry appetizers. It is wonderful with picnic or sit down lunches, serving well as the soup or appetizer course wine.

Victor Hugo Vineyards and Winery is one of Paso Robles' most exciting and innovative wineries.
